SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The Thomas P. Henderson Papers, containing approximately 80,000 items, span the period 1795-1960, although the bulk is largely concentrated in the years 1917-1945. The collection is composed of account books for the law practice, clippings, correspondence, court records, estate papers, genealogical data, land records, maps, military records, photographs, political items, scrapbooks, writings and several miscellaneous items.

The majority of the collection deals with correspondence. The correspondence has been divided into three different sections. The first section deals with general and business oriented correspondence. Included are details on the operation of his law office and his involvement in Tennessee politics. There are several letters from family members, as well as letters detailing Lucile Henderson's work with the Works Progress Administration and the Tennessee Division of Rehabilitation. Of great interest are the Civil War letters from Thomas F. Perkins. The second section of the correspondence is political in nature. His correspondence reflects his involvement with state and national politics from the Election of 1908 to the Election of 1950. The third section concerns legal correspondence, especially cases handled by Thomas P. Henderson from 1919 to 1959.

As previously mentioned Thomas Henderson took a leading role in the political world, especially during the 1920's and 1930's. Other than the correspondence, this section includes printed materials, such as booklets, political propaganda, leaflets and other campaign memorabilia. The information on the Election of 1928 is quite exhaustive. The political material found in the collection is important for it details the history of the Democratic Party during the first three decades of the twentieth century. Also important is the information available on Alfred E. Smith and his influence in the South.

One of the fascinating aspects of the collection is the military collection. Included in the collection are the clippings and articles dealing with Henderson and his friend's attempt to kidnap the Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, along with his letters written from the battlefields of France. Henderson was also involved in the American Legion, the Thirtieth Division, and the Franklin County Draft Board during World War II.

The court records include account books for the law firm, brief books, legal notebooks and the records of individual court cases. These important court records allow the researcher to examine cases being tried in Tennessee courts in the 1920's and 1930's. In a related vein are the Luke Lea papers, concerned with the trial and imprisonment of Luke Lea for bank fraud from 1932-1936.

There is a large amount of information dealing with estate and property settlements. Along with that are land records including deeds, abstracts, mortgages and plats. Small parts of the collection are composed of personal writings, pardon requests, genealogical data on the Henderson and Perkins family and veteran pension requests.

The Thomas P. Henderson Papers are a valuable addition to the Tennessee State Library and Archives. Aside from its genealogical importance, they provide a primary source for the history of the legal profession in Tennessee as well as for the growth and development of the Democratic political party in the 1920's and 1930's.
